What counts?

Give each player a different board and a pencil. Start together. Count only events you see or hear after starting; no caller is needed.

Mark each matching square once. Three marks across, down or diagonally win. If one event completes several boards, share the win. No bingo before you stop? Compare your marks or play again.

For reviewed plays, wait for the final call. If a call changes later, erase that event unless you also saw another confirmed example. A replay does not create a second occurrence.

Touchdown	The announcer or screen confirms a touchdown. Wait for the final call if the play is reviewed.
Field goal	The announcer or screen confirms a successful field goal. An extra-point kick does not count here.
Extra point	The announcer or screen confirms a successful one-point kick after a touchdown. A two-point try does not count.
First down	The announcer or screen confirms a new first down. Wait for the final call if the play is reviewed.
Punt	The announcer or screen identifies a punt. A kickoff, field goal or extra-point kick does not count here.
Kickoff	The announcer or screen identifies a kickoff. Other kinds of kicks do not count here.
Timeout	The announcer or screen announces a timeout. A commercial break by itself does not count.
Yellow flag	You see a yellow penalty flag on the field or a FLAG notice on screen. It counts even if the flag is later picked up.
Replay shown	The broadcast shows an earlier play again. This counts whether or not officials are reviewing it.
Crowd close-up	The camera cuts to spectators in the stands. A wide shot of the field with stands behind it does not count.
Coach close-up	The camera shows someone on the sideline whom the announcer or screen identifies as a coach.
Quarter ends	The announcer or screen confirms the end of a quarter. A stopped clock during the quarter does not count.
